CompoSecure's Next-Generation Crypto Storage Wallet Arculus™ Goes Live

The successful ArculusTM release represents an important milestone in Roman DBDR's digital asset acquisition strategy.

LAS VEGAS, NV - ArculusTM, the next-generation of cryptocurrency cold storage from CompoSecure LLC, is now live via www.getarculus.com. A highly secure cold storage and management service, ArculusTM consists of a mobile app and private key storage card that enables users to safely buy, sell, swap, and store their cryptocurrencies in one place.

CompoSecure's successful Arculus™ release represents an important milestone in Roman DBDR Tech Acquisition Corp's (NASDAQ: DBDR) ("Roman DBDR") digital asset acquisition strategy, and leverages CompoSecure's 20-plus years of payment card technology and security expertise to advance overall cryptocurrency market adoption.

The sleek metal Arculus Key^{TM} card provides air-gapped (not connected to the internet) protection of users' digital assets with three-factor authentication in order to access digital assets and associated private keys.

To access the Arculus Wallet™, users must provide three core identifiers:

- · Something you are: The Arculus WalletTM app uses biometric security on mobile devices, including fingerprint and facial recognition.
- · Something you know: Access to the ArculusTM app requires a 6-digit pin.
- · Something you have: Private keys for a user's digital assets are stored on the Arculus KeyTM card. With a simple tap of the card to the device, the user unlocks access to the Arculus WalletTM app and can then buy, sell, swap, and store their cryptocurrencies.

Advanced, secure, and dynamic cryptocurrency storage and management solutions are viewed as a necessary evolution in the digital asset space to empower investors with full ownership of their crypto assets and direct access to retail markets. Emergent enhancements in cryptocurrency cold storage and management solutions like ArculusTM are seen as important milestones for broader market adoption.

"Overall, there's a lot of complexity and friction that comes with using current hardware and software solutions on the market. Our goal is to remove a lot of the friction that comes with using crypto today ... With our app and payment card, you would simply tap the back of the phone which securely authenticates the transaction via the FIDO authentication standard and boom, that's it. That's what we mean when we say want to reduce the friction that comes with using crypto," said Adam Lowe, Chief Innovation Officer of CompoSecure, in an interview with Digital Wealth News.

The ease of use and utility of ArculusTMstand as two key drivers for potential market adoption. "Arculus' distinction is in its diverse and secure transactional capabilities. This includes markets such as online gambling, where ArculusTM can firmly identify users before a large bet is placed, and in online gaming to allow in-game purchases to be managed on a blockchain and within a customer's digital wallet as opposed to in-game storage," said Dr. Donald Basile, Co-CEO and Chairman of Roman DBDR said in an SEC filing.

On April 19, 2021, CompoSecure announced that it had signed a merger agreement with Roman DBDR Tech Acquisition Corp. (NASDAQ: DBDR) ("Roman DBDR"), a special purpose acquisition company. Upon closing of the proposed merger, the combined company will operate as CompoSecure, Inc. and plans to trade on the Nasdaq stock market. The transaction reflects a pro forma enterprise value for the combined company of approximately $1.2 billion. The transaction is expected to close in the third quarter of 2021 and remains subject to approval by Roman DBDR stockholders and other customary closing conditions.
